who were upon duty in reaping and getting in hay, was assailed in the night by a flight of arrows. Eight of these missles were found in the eamp, one having killed a dog, others entering the tents, &c. engaged in practicing with his gun at a target and an Indian sauntered around the mark picking up the spent balls. To scare away the lu dian, as it is said, the soldier fired towards him; and a short time afterwards the attack on the hay eamp ensued. Perhaps it also was but a reciprocal scare; but as neither occurrence was accompanied by an explanation, it is just as possible that the Indian took the fire of the soldier as a bonu fide matter, as on the other hand it is certain the military at the Fort so regard the attack on the camp.

But, unfortunately, the end was not yet. Some three weeks ago, an Indian was seen ntering about the Fort, armed with his bow and arrows, and endeavoring to sell a few Na-vajo blankets. While thus engaged, he ob-served a negro boy, named Jim (the servant of Major Brooks, who is in command of the Fort), passing about in the rear of the Fort. 1mmediately springing upon his horse, and adjusting his bow and arrow, he shot the latter deep into the body of the negro. It entered the back, below the shoulder-blade, and penetrated the lungs. The negro, without raising any outery endeavoured to extract the arrow, and in the effort, broke it short off, leaving the head in the lungs, from whence it was impossible to remove it. In two or three days the negro died. He protested that no did not know the Indian, and had never had any difficulty with him. The Indian made his escape immediately upon discharging his arrow.

The commander of the fort sent for one or more of the Najaho Chiefs, and demanded the surrender of the assassin. A pledge to surrender him was, for some time, evaded, but at length given. As yet, however, so far as our information here goes, it has not been complied with, nor is it believed here that it will be. On the contrary, the latest statement is that the Nej thos now positively refuse to give the murderer up, unless they are indemnified for the horses, some forty, I believe, which were killed by the military for traspassing on the graving grounds of the fort. This indem-nity had been positively refused by Maj. Brooks, who has given the Indians until the 19th of who has given the Indians until the 1500 of the not this month to bring in the murderer of the not gio; in default of which, I suppose, we are per se and de facto at war with the Indians.

Messrs. Editors: We are suffering excessively here for the want of a shoter, as it has not rained for the last six weeks; and our corn and tobacco are looking very "atapid," as though they had no life at all; and, if we don't have a rain shortly, we think the tobacco will turn out almost a failure. The inhabitants of Tradewater, however, are a very energetic and enterprising people; so, if any can make sustenance without rain, we certainly are the people. But if the heavens would only open for a time, and pour forth its genial showers, it would gladden many a heart. Messrs. Editors, you are well informed in regard to the failure in the out crop; but there is something rather strange about it; for instance, a great many farmers have sown the ground they had in oats in millet, and it has taken the rust also; but where the millet was sown in ground where there had been no oats, it is fine and sound.

ITA parish in the west of England, after much effort, lately purchased a self-acting organ, wirranted to play twenty tunes, and a larger congregation than usual met to inaugurate it. The first pealm had been successfully brought that the church wafter a short pause, the organ those to commence psalm tune No. 2 In vain the chirch wardens left their own pews to stifle the noise; still the organ, as though us. the efficiating person endeavored to stop it; in vain the church wardens left their own pews to stifle the noise; still the organ, as though uncontrolably pleased with its own execution, kept on with the new air. What was to be done?

HUNGARIAN WINES.—25 BOXES the hungarian wines, direct from the vineyard and residence of the property of th on with the new air. What was to be done? The service was suspended in the hope that the musical stranger might be content when the second tune was played out. Vain expectation? It commenced No. 3! and nothing remained but to carry the instrument into the church-yard, and there to cover it with the vestry carpet to choke its voice, for on and on it went till the number of twenty had been played out, much to the edification of the less attentive part of the congregation, who could hear only half-smothered melodies.—London Times.

Amusing Bienders -Not long since a gentleman telegraphed to a friend at Cleveland an interesting family affair, as follows: 'Sarah and little one are doing well.' The telegraph reached its destination when it read thus: 'Sarah an I litter all doing well.'

The recipient telegraphed back the following starlling query.

'For heaven's sake how many has she got?' Another time a gentleman sent a dispatch to a business friend to call upon a third party in relation to some commercial transaction.
dispatch was intended to read thus:

'Call at the post office and see Mygatt.'
The recipient's message read:
'Call at the post-office and see my gal.'
Not even comprehending the mistake, the recipient called at the post office and inquired if there was a young lady there, and only discovered the error after being well laughed at. Tell me, ye winged winds, that round my pathway roar, do you not know some quiet spot where mortals fret no more? Some lone and pleasant dell, some "holler" in the ground, where dandies never swell, and donkeys are not where mortals fret no more? Some lone and pleasant dell, some "holler" in the ground, where dandies never swell, and donkeys are not found? The lond wind blew the snow into my face, and snickered as it answered, "nary MARSHALL BALBERT & CO.

IJA windy M. P., in a tedious oration, stopped to imbibe a glass of water. "I rise," said Sheridan, "to a point of order." Everybody started in wonder at what the point of order was. "What is it?" said the Speaker. "I think, sir," said Sheridan, "it is out of order for a windmill to go by water."
